WHAT YOU SHOULD KNOW

1) TYPES OF BUTLER BASINS.

a) Manufactured at our facility in Village Deep, our composite butler sinks are crafted from a durable blend of resin and stone. Available in a variety of colors, these sinks are designed for both style and practicality. While they are resistant to wear, they can be damaged by careless handling, though repairs are possible. For maintenance, we recommend cleaning with Vim and a soft sponge to keep your sink in top condition.

b) We offer the classic Single Butler sink in traditional Vitreous China. With a charming, cottage-inspired aesthetic, these sinks feature soft, rounded edges and a less rigid finish compared to other options. While ceramic butlers are easier to clean than composite sinks, they require more careful use when placing plates and pots to avoid potential damage.

c) Fireclay Butler: Our imported RAK basins are top of the range Fireclay (Solid Ceramic) Tough and easy to clean. Often people do put a sink protector at the base of the bowl to protect their crockery from chipping.

2) CLEANING AND PROTECTING YOUR BASIN.

For Composite Stone Sinks, we recommend cleaning once a month using Vim and a Green and Yellow Sponge. This routine helps maintain the sink's appearance and keeps it in optimal condition.

For Ceramic Sinks, many customers opt to use a sink protector to safeguard crockery from potential chipping and to preserve the sink's surface. Regular gentle cleaning will also help maintain its quality and appearance over time.

3) INSTALLING YOUR BASIN.

While we recommend that a professional kitchen installer handle the installation, here are some key points to keep in mind:

- The granite slab should be installed above the basin, with the cut-out slightly smaller than the inner edge of the butler bowl. A margin of 5-8mm around the sink is ideal.
- Accurate measurements are essential, but it's always best to have the actual sink on hand during the design and construction of the unit. This ensures a precise fit, especially when working with materials like granite or wood that match the countertop.

4) WASTE FITTINGS

Our Butler sinks are designed to be compatible with a Splashworks 90mm waste, we also offer our own Rossco waste fittings, available in Brass and Blackened Brass, which are specifically designed for Butler sinks. Please note any other brand of waste fittings will not be compatible with our butler sinks.

METALLIC

WHAT YOU SHOULD KNOW:

We manufacture our basins out of Solid Copper and Brass Sheets.

*Manufacturing lead time is two to three weeks.

These metals can be treated in different ways to achieve different finishes:

COPPER

A pink like metal, that is very reactive to the elements. We only recommend Copper for a very natural setting or look, an example of that would be in a thatch lappa.

Daily cleaning is advised to ensure its shine and "brand new" look. The basin can also be left to age for a rustic aesthetic.

POLISHED COPPER

BRASS

A gold like metal, it is also a reactive to the elements but is less reactive in comparison to copper, which allows for less regular cleaning. If a brass basin is to be used in a commercial setting we suggest a natural matte finish, with a cleaning regime of "Handy Andy" or a mild abrasive.

POLISHED BRASS
